

Welcome future physiotherapists and podiatrists,

Tabula Rasa is the student association for students Physiotherapy & Podotherapy at the Saxion in Enschede. These courses fall within the Saxion under the academy health care (AGZ). The association was founded on 1 October 1969 by, among others, Bert Simens (former lecturer in physiotherapy).

Tabula Rasa means 'blank page'. Student life is a new period in your life that you start as blank. Tabula Rasa gives you as a student the opportunity to give this new life an extra dimension. Within Tabula Rasa you can gain a lot of new experiences. For example, all kinds of (study-related and non-study related) activities are organized for and perhaps because of you!

Tabula Rasa is an active student association with no obligations. It is therefore possible to only be a member for the discounts on, for example, courses and books. You can also be an active member by joining committees, activities and the drinks on Tuesday evenings.

Three committees are active within Tabula Rasa. There is a societal committee for our own club. If you want to do this, it means that you have to be a bartender one evening at least once every two months and also help to think up and organize the theme parties. If you would like to organize activities (both study-related and non-study-related) then there is the activity committee. In this committee, activities are divided in consultation and you also assist in the organization and supervision of these activities. Are you creative and do you like to engage with social media? Then there is the PR committee that promotes all organized activities and ensures that the social media stays up-to-date.

Tabula Rasa has its own club in Enschede. Besides the fact that having your own club is fun and useful for us, it is also available for renting. The location is ideal (one street behind the old market) making it easily accessible to everyone. In this club (Stadsgravenstraat 41-43 in Enschede) we, as an association, have a drink every Tuesday from 22:00 to 04:00 which is freely accessible to everyone who wants!

Every year, Tabula Rasa organizes an introductory camp for the new physio and podotherapy students. This introduction camp is not mandatory, but definitely recommended! The camp is always a great success for several reasons. People already know each other for the study (besides the new first-year students, senior students and teachers are also present at the camp). It is always fun and there are fun activities throughout the weekend. Following the camp, there is the institute day on Tuesday that is compulsory for all new students. On Wednesday the HOI-week starts (general introduction for all Saxion).

Within our association everyone is open to a conversation and there are always people willing to help if needed. In addition to all the contacts and benefits / discounts you get, it's great fun and you end up in an active group of people who are always in for fun! Would you like to become a member of S.V. Tabula Rasa, or does the introduction camp seem useful and fun to you? Then pay a visit to our site:

Hopefully we all see you at the introduction camp and we can get to know more!
